

Business Notes

Reising Jewelers moves to 4th & Walnut

DOWNTOWN – A jeweler has moved from one downtown location to another.

Ed Kuhlman, a Cincinnati jeweler for 36 years, has moved his business, Reising Jewelers, to the main lobby of the Fourth and Walnut Centre (105 E. Fourth Street) from his previous spot in the Bartlett Building.

Kuhlman said that the new space met his criteria: upscale, accessible, private and – most importantly – downtown.

The company carries jewelry from designers such as Charles Krypell, Asch/Gross Bardt, Charroil, Kurt Guttman and Mikimoto. It offers Swiss-made watches by Breitling, Tag Heuer and Tissot.

Information: 513-381-2002 or www.reisingjewelers.net

New business helps with health, safety

MONTGOMERY – Helping clients maintain a safe and healthful workplace is the goal of a new occupational health and safety consulting firm.

Morris Innovative IH&S Solutions LLC works with companies on such matters as industrial hygiene, toxicology services, comprehensive chemical and noise exposure assessments, exposure controls, employee training and OSHA compliance assistance.

Owner Tom Morris says that a key aspect of his services is assessment of clients' occupational health and safety needs and getting the most from the clients' investment in such services.

Morris has logged more than 30 years' experience in the field and has been a certified industrial hygienist for more than two decades.

His new firm is at 9891 Montgomery Road, Suite 163.

Information: 513-235-0853

Central Satellite offers PAL uplinks

BOND HILL – Central Satellite Services now offers the phase alternating line (PAL) television standard for uplinks from both of its KU-Band satellite trucks.

KU Band Satellite trucks are used to send television signals via satellite for broadcast networks and other companies.

"To uplink using the PAL television standard means we can now provide point-to-point live television to 75 percent of the planet. That's a tremendous opportunity for our clients," said Paul Kremer, the company's co-owner.

Approximately 115 countries and territories around the world – but not the U.S. – use the terrestrial PAL system, a color encoding system used in broadcast television.

Central Satellite Services operates two KU Band Satellite Uplink trucks in Cincinnati. Single- or multiple-camera video productions, generators, lighting equipment and crews are also available.

The company is at 6851 Steger Drive.

Information: 513-821-7200 or www.centrialsat.com

Northeast Chamber seeks nominations

MASON – Know of a business that has done great things in the past 12 months?

The Northeast Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce is seeking nominations for businesses in these categories: outstanding retail business, outstanding rookie business, outstanding professional services business, outstanding family-owned business, outstanding manufacturing business and 2008 business of the year.

Nominations are welcome also for outstanding executive of the year.

Nominations should state in 100 words or less why the business is award-worthy, with the emphasis on achievements within the past year.

The nominations may be submitted via e-mail or mailed to Award Selection Committee, c/o Northeast Cincinnati Chamber, 316 W. Main Street, Mason, OH 45040. Deadline is Aug. 29; nominators should include their contact information.

The awards will be presented at the chamber's Soaring to New Heights Awards Extravaganza on Oct. 2 at the Manor House Banquet & Conference Center in Mason.

Jenny Callison

Information: 513-336-0125, admin@necchamber.org or www.necchamber.org

Briefly:

■ A collaboration with Colorado-based CH2M HILL has netted KZF Design a national design award from the Air Force for the design of the U.S. Transportation Command consolidation facility at Scott Air Force Base in Illinois. The partner companies received the award at a ceremony in Washington. KZF is a national full-service architecture, engineering, interior design and planning firm; CH2M HILL specializes in engineering, procurement, construction, management and operations for government, civil, industrial and energy clients. Information: www.kzf.com

■ Carla Eng, president of Abstract Displays Inc., has been named the 2008 recipient of the WE Link/Athena PowerLink Program. This program connects selected female business owners with a skilled advisory panel to help them enhance their leadership and management skills and achieve networking, capital, operating and strategic goals for her company. Eng was selected by the Cincinnati USA Regional Chamber and Athena PowerLink.

E-mail jcallison@zoomtown.com or fax 513-564-6991 with openings, expansions and other news about neighborhood businesses. And make the announcement yourself online. Go to Cincinnati.Com or NKY.com and use Share. It's free.

Printing imperfections present during scanning